Drama of final 4 days of war slated

By BILL SHERROD

Work has begun on a one-hour television docu-drama about the final four days of the Civil War and the surrender at Appomattox Court House on April 9, 1865.

The film is being produced by Corinthian Productions, a Hampton-based video-media firm. It is a division of Corinthian Broadcasting, a New York-based broadcast company.

A portion of the production crew was at the Traveler's Inn in Appomattox early this week, preparing to shoot the film. Production will be conducted off and on from now into April.

The film dealing with Appomattox is one of a series titled "Historyland" being produced by Corinthian, according to Bob Rierson, executive producer of the Appomattox project.

The Civil War special will be syndicated upon completion. "We plan to sell it into syndication at a meeting of national broadcasters in New York," according to Rierson. He says the feature will first appear on stations owned by Corinthian Broadcasting, then appear on other stations which purchase the film.

Corinthian owns six television stations across the nation, in Hampton, Sacramento, Tulsa, Houston, Indianapolis, and Fort Wayne.

Rierson adds that several television stations in this region have expressed an interest in airing the finished product, including WWBT-TV, channel 12, in Richmond.

The special will cover the events of April 6,7,8 and 9, 1965, with the movement of Confederate General Robert E. Lee's troops from Sayler's Creek to Appomattox Court House. It will include a re-enactment of the battle at Sayler's Creek as well as depictions of other minor skirmishes between Sayler's Creek and Appomattox.

"But more than being a dry, straight documentary, the film will be an up-close, personal look at the men who were involved in the final days of Civil War," says Rierson.

"It will examine thé thoughts and feelings of Generals Lee and Grant, as well as the Confederate and Union soldiers who were here during the final hours of the Civil War," adds Lesli Legum, production manager for the Appomattox projects.

Joe Easley, a character actor who Rierson describes as "brilliant", will play the parts of both Lee and Grant in the film, Rierson says. Easley has appeared in several feature films and network and local television productions, according to Rierson.

Aside from the McLean House, where the actual surrender took place, the film will utilize numerous historic spots in and around Appomattox. "There is one scene where Gen. Grant receives messages from Gen. Lee the night before the surrender, and it's being shot in the house Grant actually stayed in, here in Appomattox," Rierson says.

There will also be a scene where Lee and his war counsel sit around a campfire in the woods near Appomattox Court House before the surrender, discussing the final moments of the war.

While the production will seem more like a 'play than a documentary, it is based on solid fact, according to Rierson. Much research has gone into compiling the script. Several consultants, including Chris Calkins, a former employee of the Appomattox Court House National Historical Park who wrote the book, Thirty-six Hours Before Appomattox, have been used in authenticating the production.

Dr. Ludwell Johnson, a professor of history at William and Mary and a leading authority on American History, is serving as educational consultant for the production Rierson says.

"We are leaving no stone unturned to make this project authentic," according to Rierson.

Rierson says the production will be ready for broadcast in late May or early June. "the people here have been wonder-

JACK NELSON, a freelance actor who will play the part of Union General John Rawlings in a docu-drama about the final four days of the Civil War being produced in Appomattox, receives a "bogus beard" from Joe Earley, an actor who will play the parts of both General Robert E. Lee and General U.S. Grant in the film. The production, scheduled for completion in late May or early June, will trace the movement of the Confederate and Union armies from Sayler's Creek to Appomattox Court House. Bob Rierson, executive producer of the project, says the film will be a close-up personal look at the thoughts and feelings of the people involved in the final days of the Civil War.

Tonight

Council to meet

The Appomattox Town Council will meet today (Wednesday) at 5 p.m. in town hall, according to Town Manager Bill Britton.

The meeting is a recessed session planned at the Feb. 9 Town Council meeting, according to Britton.

The Mayor and Council will discuss the options available to the town in the Arco Cablevision issue. Arco owner, Stanley Deimler, appeared at the Feb. 9 meeting to discuss plans for his cable franchise.

The franchise agreement with the Town of Appomattox has expired, and the Council has discussed the idea of refusing to renew the Arco agreement and putting the franchise out to bid, or allowing Arco to keep the franchise so that Deimler can sell the cablevision system to local merchants interested in purchasing it.

The Arco franchise for Appomattox County was cancelled by the County Board of Supervisors at their January board meeting.

Retired school administrator

Chuchek dead at 70

Frank Charles Chuchek, 70, of Route 1, Appomattox died Wednesday, February 18 at the Virginia Baptist Hospital.

He was a retired school administrator with 36 years of service, having served as principal of Appomattox County High School from 1961 until 1971. Following this, he was named Administrative Assistant for the Appomattox County School System.

Born in Johnstown, Pa., he was a son of the late Frank Chuchek, Sr., and Theresa B. Chuchek. He received his Bachelor of Science degree from Shippensburg State Teachers College, Shippensburg, Pa., and his Masters degree in Education from the University of Pittsburg. Prior to coming to Appomattox he served as principal in Mecklenburg County, Va. and in Sayre, Pa., and was principal in Chase City for 19 years.

He was a member of Liberty Baptist Church, a former member of the Appomattox Lions Club, a past Puritan president, and an active member of the Appomattox Unit of the American Cancer Society.

He is survived by his wife, Norma Case Chuchek; two daughters, Norma Jeanne Chuchek Sears, Salisburg, N. C. and Joanne Marie Chuchek Blue, Columbus, Ohio; one stepson, Frank Case Weightman, Chapel Hill, N. C.; seven grandchildren; two brothers, Fred J. Chucheck, Clearfield, Pa., and Anthony C. Chucheck, Toledo, Ohio and one sister, Mrs. Olivia C. McGrew, Toledo, Ohio.

Funeral services were held at 4 p.m. Friday at Robinson Funeral Home and burial was in the Liberty Cemetery.

Heart drive continues

By FRANCES H. PAULETTE

February is 'Heart Month' and Debbie Powell, chairman of the American Heart Association for the Appomattox Unit and Heart Campaign volunteers are busy collecting money. Why?

Among other things, the American Heart Association believes that research is the starting point for vital new medical knowledge, and research takes money.

In 1980-81, the American Heart Association will put almost $350,000 into Virginia research laboratories. Of that amount, $110,000 is directly from monies raised in Virginia through the Virginia affiliate. The remainder comes back to Virginia from funds raised and passed through the National Association.

The American Heart Association is fighting to reduce early death and disability from heart disease and stroke.

This year's campaign goal for Appomattox County is $3,525.00.

If you're a young person, you may very well be thinking, it's a good cause, but I don't have to worry.....maybe when I'm older I'll be a candidate for heart disease..... Wait a minute.....

If you are one of those people who think heart disease is something that happens only to old people, then you are mistaken!

Heart disease can and does cripple and kill infants and young children as well as young adults.

Heart disease, America's number one killer, takes the lives of nearly one million Americans each year and 200,000 of them die before retirement age.

Just what does the American Heart Association do to lessen your chances of being a statistic?

The American Heart Association's relentless battle against the number one killer combines a nationwide research program as well as improving health care in the community through professional and public education and community service programs.

When the American Heart Association, Appomattox Unit volunteer comes to your door, give generously.

Starting March 1

Auto tags on sale

1981 County auto decals go on sale March 1 and must be purchased by March 31, 1981 at the Appomattox County Treasurer's Office. Cost is $10.00.

All personal property tax must be paid before you can purchase your decal. Decals can be purchased by mail but only if you send in your valid state registration card with license number or a photostatic copy along with the following information:

If married or have ever been married - both husband's and wife's name.

Did you live in Appomattox County on January 1, 1981.

Did you own this vehicle on January 1, 1981, if not make and style of vehicle you did own Jan. 1, 1981.

If you are purchasing your decal by mail, your request must be in our office by March 20th. Any request you make after March 20th most likely will not get back to you by March 31.

The Treasurer's Office will be opened March 21 and March 28 until 12 noon.

Burning law set to start March 1

The outdoor burning law, the law requiring safety in burning brush, trash and other debris, becomes effective March 1.

David Smith, Chief Forest Warden for Appomattox County said the law, known as the 4 p.m. burning law, and the brush burning law, actually applies to the burning of any materials in the outdoors.

The regulation, designed to reduce the number of escaped grass and forest fires requires that burning of any materials or debris, can be done only between the hours of 4 p.m. and 12 midnight if the fire is in or within 300 feet of, forestland, brushland, or other inflamable material. The law is in effect from March 1 through May 15 of each year.

Smith also pointed out that this regulation is in addition to any air pollution control laws that exist and that are enforced by the Air Pollution Control Board.

Forest Wardens David Smith and Wayne Bowman urge that any burning be done after 4 p.m. and that the fire be checked the next day to be sure that all sparks are cold. Fires should not be left untended and every effort should be made to make all open fires safe.

Smith asks that people in this county cooperate again this year in the prevention of forest fires.

March 5 deadline for drought loans

Virginia Farmers are reminded that the filing deadline for the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) Drought Loan Program is March 5, 1981.

The SBA has approved more than 500 loans totaling more than $30 million dollars to Virginia farmers who suffered crop losses as a result of the severe drought conditions of 1980. The Drought Program promises to be the largest SBA disaster operation in the State's history exceeding $70 million dollars in loans.

Willie E. Poe, SBA Acting District Director in Richmond, says he expects an increase in applications in the final days before the filing deadline. "We have accepted over 900 applications for crop loss loans in Virginia, but we know that many farmers have not yet filed with our Disaster Office," Poe said. "Based on our previous experience, we expect a surge in the number of applications just prior to the March 5 deadline."

Poe said that applications filed at this late date will encounter inevitable processing delays. "Our Loan Program and filing deadline have been well publicized during the past six months and those farmers who filed early have their loan money," Poe said. "At this late stage in the Program it will take four to six weeks to process an application and another thirty to sixty days to actually disburse the funds from the U.S. Treasury.

Farmers can obtain assistance in completing their SBA application forms from the SBA, Farmers Home Administration, Production Credit Association, County Extension Agents, or from their Banker, Accountant, or Attorney.

Poe added that a related SBA Program, Economic Injury Disaster Loans (EIDL), for agri-businesses, livestock producers, and dairy farmers has received over 150 applications for nearly $20 million. The filing deadline for the EIDL Program is June 5, 1981.

Applications for both low interest loan programs and further information on filing is available by calling the toll free SBA disaster information hot line at 1-800-552-3717.

Students celebrate

FFA week here

Members of the Appomattox Senior Chapter of Future Farmers of America join with nearly 485,000 other FFA members in the United States in celebrating National FFA Week which started February 21.

Throughout the week the state's 211 chapters are conducting activities to support the theme "FFA - Preparing For Progress".

The traditions of FFA have held strong and produced a mighty work force for food and fiber to meet the needs of our nation and the world. Successful agricultural leaders of today are testimony. Vocational agricultural education is an American success story of learning by doing.

National FFA Week always includes George Washington's birthday in observance of his leadership in promoting scientific farming practices. Washington is considered the patron saint of the FFA and has come to symbolize the FFA Treasurer.

According to President Richard Jones, the Appomattox Senior FFA Chapter is participating in numerous activities to promote FFA Week. Placemats were distributed to local restaurants, an FFA Week billboard was posted on Route 24, a skating party was held on Monday night and a reception for ACHS faculty members is scheduled for Wednesday morning.

In addition, members are distributing FFA Week bumper stickers, litter bags and ball point pens. Bulletin boards have been erected at ACHS and FFA Week posters placed with local businesses. Members have produced one radio program and are having spot announcements on local radio stations in addition to using other local news media to promote FFA Week activities.

Organized in 1928, the FFA promotes leadership, cooperation and citizenship among high school vocational agriculture students. Vocational agriculture education in high school prepares students for careers in agricultural production, processing, marketing and fields of agribusiness.

DAVID SMITH, CHIEF Forest Warden, and Wayne Bowman, Forester for Appomattox County are displaying one of the signs that will be posted along side highways in the area to keep the public aware of the "Outdoor Burning Law" which will go into effect March 1, 1978.

Budget discussion slated

Board to meet

The Appomattox County School Board will meet next Wednesday, March 4, at 7 p.m. in the school board office, according to Lloyd Walton, superintendent of schools.

Board members will use the meeting as a work session to begin development of the school division budget for 1981-82

WOW to meet

The Woodmen of the World, Camp 71 will have an Initiation meeting on Monday, March 2 at 7:30 at the W.O.W. Building.

Officers and team are urged to be present.

It is not smart to challenge February weather. All month I have a snow shovel handy at the door, ready to open a pathway from the front door to the street. But no snow, I was on the way to the basement with the unneeded shovel when I thought it over and brought it back. Like I said, don't challenge the February weather. Actually I have recorded seven mornings this month with the 7 a.m. temperature on my porch above fifty.

Ah yes, first week of spring is March 15 - 21. Also that is Virginia Agriculture Week. National Agriculture Day is March 19. My salute to Agriculture will start when my garden is plowed and seed scattering begins. Light rain as I write, Monday morning. We need lots of it.

Random comment. One of the biggest changes in recent years is the style change of going without hats. On my regular early trip over town this morning saw only two people with hats. May be healthier and safer. Safer because the long hatpin ladies used to hold her huge hat in place, was dangerous. Next time you look through an album of old pictures, instead of just trying to identify the people, study the change in dress style. Predictions are that there will not be any great change in dress style this summer. We'll see. My guess is that change is a way of life and will always be with us.
